THE PARADE OF DEATH

Now that United States has concluded her naval manoeuvres in the Pacific and proved, to her own satisfaction, that she can capture and hold the Hawaiian Islands, Japan says a news despatch, will begin a great naval demonstration of her own.

The occasion will be the anniversary of the Battle of Tsushima, May 27, and the manoeuvres will reproduce Admiral Togo's famous on-slaught. Airplanes will participate by the hundreds. The Prince Regent will be present. Japan expects to prove that she can protect her shores from any attack.

Prohibitive man, watching from some safe cave along the lake shore, must have witnessed, hundreds of times, much the same performance as is reproduced in these American and Japanese manoeuvres.

He has seen two giant male lizards floundering in the water close to each other. Slowly and clumsily they would come nearer. At last they would touch. There would be a sudden snap. And war to the death would be on.

These two great naval demonstrations are like those prehistoric lizards.

Ploughing their way through the Pacific, turning, advancing, manoeuvring, turning and advancing again, these two fleets, ostensibly at play, are in reality staging a colossal of death.

It is only eleven years since the British and German navies were engaging themselves in the same unrelenting sport, parading the seas in full panoply of war, exciting hatred and suspicion against each other until the final snap came—and hell broke out on earth.

Is this to be re-enacted in the Pacific?

If there is a moral to be found in this situation, any small boy can tell it to you. It is simply this:

Build up your muscles all you like, practice your swings, uppercuts and short-arm jabs—insects. But, in the name of peace, keep the chip off your shoulder. Don't show your muscles to the gang.

GERMANY SICK AGAIN

By electing General Von Hindenburg to the presidency of Germany, the German people have simply cut the devil loose again in unhappy Europe.

And the reason is that, after all, man is controlled 98 per cent by his emotions and 2 per cent by his intelligence. German intelligence must revolt at the thought of returning to monarchic government. But German emotions cannot break away from the traditions of gold braid and the legends of royal splendor.

The plain fact is that pan-Germans and the old imperialistic dream of world power are not dead. You cannot fill a nation to the ears with rotten philosophy, false ambitions and diseased ideas for two or three generations and then expect that nation to purge itself of distorted ideals overnight.

The German nation wept a little at the close of the war and promised reformation.

The sad flower of repentance blooms very readily in the fields of famine and sudden death.

But evil notions are just as hardy as good ones. Sick thought persists as a nation as long as healthy thought. And Germany's diseased notions, always latent, have simply broken out again.

It may mean the end of Europe—and the beginning of an even greater era for the New World. Another war in Europe will complete the transference of the centre of civilization from Europe to the Pacific area.

THE MOTOR CAR

It is truly a world on wheels we live in. Last year new motor vehicles cost the world three-and-a-half billion dollars.

The U. S. Department of Commerce informs you that during the year there were assimilated 3,300,000 passenger cars and trucks and 200,000 motor cycles. Average price per car was $1,000, per motor cycle $200.

Twenty-five years ago the automobile was an experiment. Today there is one to every six persons—or nearly so.

Twenty-five years more will see the airplane brought to perfection and universal use, and the family garage will be incomplete without its aerial flivver.

RECOGNITION OF BRAINS

Charles Saunders, who made possible Marquis wheat, is pensioned at $5,000 a year by the Canadian Government.

This is unusual. Few discoverers and inventors get more than that out of years of work. Yet it is cheap for Canadians. The Government can easily afford the $5,000 a year from the increased taxes paid by the men who cashed in on Saunders' labors.

Now that "bootlegger" has sneaked into the dictionary you can find him almost everywhere except in jail.

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

(Conducted by Miss Alice L. Webb, State College of Washington.)

Art In Dress Discussed By Radio
"What does the average, everyday woman know about art in relation to dress, the correct principles of artistic construction or expression?" enquired Mrs. Nellie Jacobs, instructor in garment making at the State College of Washington, in a talk over radio KFAE, the college broadcaster.

"How is she going to know when she is artistically, or even inoffensively dressed? Many are endowed with an instinct for choosing the right things in clothes, but often this instinct fails, and one offends by choosing the wrong colors or designs. A mistake is first learned by the disapproval of the family then of friends, who may tell us without words, perhaps, by their lack of approval and interest.

"How may we avoid constant mistakes? First, acquire appreciation of what is beautiful in color and design for clothing, or be unable ever to consciously choose wisely. There are certain principles to guide in this business of choosing clothes, which, intelligently used should bring pleasing results.

Proportion Important
"Proportion is the first of these principles. A dress must be well proportioned to be of lasting interest to us. The Greek law of proportion tells us that a space or line divided somewhere between 1/2 and 2/3 its length or area will give the right results. Many appreciate the results but few realize that it was not accidental. Pleasing proportion requires a certain amount of variety in the various spaces in the dress. Equal space divisions grow monotonous when used excessively or without variation.

"For instance, a dress with the waist and skirt divided by a belt at exactly half the entire length is not in good proportion unless the waist or skirt is somewhat broken by other spaces, such as bands, collar or trimmings. The length of the sleeve, width of collar, cuffs, belt, hem, pocket bindings or flaps, trimming bands, all bear a relation to each other and should be planned for a resultant pleasing effect. They should not be all the same, or all different, but a certain amount of repetition of width should be used to tie the different parts together and give the garment unity.

"Next to proportion comes subordination. Every dress should have one dominant interest, all other parts being subordinated to it. It is best to keep the center of interest near the face. Generally, in order not to subordinate the personality of the individual to some trimming or other garment feature, the face should be the most interesting part of the ensemble.

"Then we have balance, bringing about a sense of rest in a garment. There must be symmetry, both sides alike. Clothing so planned is usually more satisfactory, but one may use a pocket on one side and a trimming band on the other, for example, both having the appearance of the same weight or balance.

"Rhythm, which is pleasing repetition of accent in any design which carries the eye easily from one point to another, helps to bring unity. Repetition leads to monotony. At a recent women's world fair at Chicago, a teacher of dress design said that one tires in looking at repeated horizontal stripes, before the eye travels to the end of each line, and jumps across, leading the eye upward instead of cross-wise and thus giving a suggestion of distance up rather than with across. If we can satisfy ourselves that this is true, then the 'stouts' who have longed for stripes running around may satisfy their longing to the extreme, for apparently, the more stripes the better.

Natural Division
"The human figure is an example of the proportion, and the costumes of the proportion.

DEWDROP
Small shining drop, no lady's ring holds so beautiful a thing. At sun-up in the early air. The sweetness of the world you share.

Within your little mirror lie The green grass and the winged fly. The lowest flower, the tallest tree. In your crystal I can see. Why, in your tiny globe you hold The sun himself, a mirror of gold. It makes me wonder if the world In which so many things are curled, The world which all men real call, Is not the real world at all. But just a drop of dew instead Swinging on a spider's thread.

Eleanor Farson, in the Nation and the Athenaeum.

which have come down through the ages as beautiful as those conforming to the natural divisions of the body, the neck, the waist, the thighs, the knees, and the ankles. The Greek costume is an example and the same pleasing proportion may be adapted to modern costume resulting in a quality of interest equal to that of the Greek gown.

"If we would judge wisely and discriminate well, it must be from a more stable basis than personal whim or fancy. To me, art means order, and the beauty of a thing, whatever it may be, is invariably clear and orderly in arrangement, frank and straightforward as to use. Our clothing, then, if designed or planned according to art principles, should give us pleasure by its proportion, proper subordination, well balanced trimmings and colors, and the sense of rhythm brought about by the use of repeated lines, units, etc., which give unity.

"I suggest to the average woman a study of order in dress, not merely the keeping of colors, cuffs, belts, and pockets in place and without wrinkles or puckers, but orderly arrangement of them on the garment. That is the beginning of art in dress."

PLAYED SAFE
Doctor—"Well, you are certainly looking better than I expected to find you."
Patient—"I think it is because I followed the instruction on your medicine bottle."

Doctor—"Very likely. What were they?"
Patient grimly—"Keep the bottle tightly corked."

The nice thing about dictating letters is that you can use a lot of words you don't know how to spell.

Purchases representing thousands of dollars are lost to us, to our trade, to our clerks and employees, to our laborers and artisans, to all the people of Macleod who exist on the products of their work. This money, if spent at home, would help to recreate Macleod financially, give a wider field of activities in business, would be helpful to every resident of this town.

If we purchased regularly from local merchants, this money would circulate in Macleod in a welcome manner. Our merchants merit our patronage; it is to our interest, and the duty of all of us, to encourage the local merchant. He is one of us, he lives among us, he has the right to be encouraged by us, he is anxious to have our custom, and to give us satisfaction. We should under all circumstances give him preference, price for price, quality for quality. And nearly always the price that our local merchant asks is, if we compare the quality, just as cheap as that of the outside merchant.

Never purchase merchandise by catalogues from foreign houses before assuring yourself that you cannot procure the same articles, of the same quality (and frequently of better quality) at the same price from your local merchant.

CAPITAL GOSSIP AND PROV. NEWS

Immigration Irish

Considerable immigration has taken place into Alberta within the past month, large numbers of settlers arriving chiefly from Britain and European countries. Many enquiries from prospective settlers are being received at the offices of the Provincial Publicity Commissioner, and by the federal offices. During one week recently more than twenty homesteads have been filed on at the local land office.

Editors to Visit Alberta

A tour of western Canada will be made in July by the Graphic Arts Guild, composed of eastern Canadian and American editors, which will hold its first meeting in Winnipeg on June 27. The party will spend some time in Alberta, spending a day at Calgary, and a day at Edmonton, and a short time in the province on July 2. Later in the year a party of American editors expect to make a tour of the West.

Preparing to Extend Line

Preliminary work for the 30-mile extension of the Lacombe & North-western Railway is now being done. The surveys are now being run and tie-cutting done, and contracts will be awarded shortly for the clearing and grading.

Many Placed on Farms

Since March 15 of this year the Provincial Labor Bureau have placed in farm vacancies more than 3,700 hands. The bulk of the orders for this farm labor came in during April. In the week of April 11, some 750 were placed, and in the next week 1,235 were placed, and the following week 830 were placed. The week of April 18 when over 1,200 were placed, is a record for the service for spring operations, more vacancies being filled for that period than for any similar period in the spring season in the history of the service. The highest previous year was in 1924 when in the same week 639 hands were placed on farms.

Extending Time to Transfer Settlers

Extension of time until the end of June has been granted on the arrangements between the railway companies and the Dominion and Provincial Governments with respect to the removal of settlers from the south-eastern part of the province to other localities in the province. The extension has been granted on the understanding that all shipments will be concluded by June 30. Nearly 200 families have now been removed from that section of the province.

New Arrangement re Arbor Day

Arbor Day will be celebrated on May 11, which date has been set by the Provincial Government. It has been the custom for schools throughout the province to observe this as a general holiday and the schools have been closed. Hon. Perrin Baker, Minister of Education, holds the view that this date is the best for which Arbor Day was set aside, namely the planting of trees around the school grounds and generally beautifying the grounds. While Arbor Day may still be observed as a general holiday among the schools, Mr. Baker has urged that the schools carry on and observe the day for what it was originally intended. He has stipulated that those schools which do this will receive the usual grant for a school day. When the schools close up for this day, as on other holidays, they do not receive the grant.

Alberta Bees Winter Well

Winter losses among Alberta bees has been small, according to reports received by H. T. Luther of Lethbridge, secretary of the newly organized Alberta Bee Keepers Association. At the Experimental Station at Lethbridge the winter loss was 32 1/2 per cent, while other members of the Association report under 10 per cent. The few heavier losses in all cases seem to be due to the beekeepers letting their bees go into the winter in poor condition. The Beekeepers Association executive are studying every phase of the business in the Province and are determined to lay a sound foundation for this industry in Alberta. Another meeting of the Association has been called to convene in the Board of Trade Rooms at Lethbridge at 8 p.m. Friday, May 15, when a large number of those interested are expected to be in attendance.

Special Committee on Tuberculosis

One of the most important steps taken in the study of local tuberculosis, was announced during the past week, by Dr. H. M. T. T. Chairman of the Research Council for Canada, in tuberculosis as it affects cattle. This announcement will be most gratifying to the people of Alberta, since it forecasts dominion-wide action.

TO DELINQUENTS

An exchange publishes this "code" message to "some" of its readers. Those who recognize the "key" character, will have no difficulty in deciphering the message, and, we hope, they will have as little difficulty in sending a suitable reply:

There is a small matter which some of our subscribers have seemingly forgotten. To us it is necessary in our business. We are very modest and we do not wish to speak of it.

And gives the earth a sweet per-

Lost I disturb a flowering bed?

At Touch of Spring.

When do the birds burst into song

A blur of blue, a rushing throng?

At Touch of Spring.

Why do I wish for but one thing

To feel release and sing and sing?

A Touch of Spring.

GREAT INDIAN BATTLE TWIXT BLOODS AND CREES

In the annals of history there are many of the great battles of the North American Indians that have been omitted, as no records have been obtained. Some of the bloodiest conflicts were between Indian tribes, and such was the great battle which occurred some sixty years ago, and which was fought on the river banks of the now St. Mary's, a few miles east of Macleod.

The Crees, a large tribe of North Eastern Indians decided to go on the warpath and seek out fresh hunting grounds, where the buffalo were plentiful and camping facilities of the best. Coming in from the east they found practically no opposition, the few nomad tribes of Indians they came in contact with were easily beaten, and these small victories filled them with a spirit of conquest that they could go on conquering. The Crees Indians made their camp just east of the river where Lethbridge is now situated and sent out a party of scouts on reconnoitering work to discover what enemies and obstacles were to be encountered the other side of the river.

These scouts were surprised by a party of Blood Indians, who were then known as the most brave and warlike of the Indian race. The Crees scouts who were forced to retreat on account of overwhelming odds, were pursued by the Bloods until the main force and camp of the Crees was encountered when a fierce and bloodthirsty encounter occurred. MEETING OF MACLEOD AND
DISTRICT BOARD OF TRADE

On Tuesday evening last the regular meeting of the Board of Trade was held, and it was one of the best attended of the many meetings held for some time.

The Board with great regret accepted the resignation of President A. D. Ferguson, who is leaving Macleod to take up business in Ontario. The Tourist Camp at the R. C. M. Police barracks will be opened this week. Every facility for the comfort of the tourist will be furnished. There will only be the one camp this year, the small camp at the foot of the Power house hill will be closed. W. H. Shields, M.L.A., addressed the meeting last night on the improvement of roads and trails in Southern Alberta. It is quite evident that Macleod will be the hub of all road building in southern Alberta, as repair crews are now on the road on the following trails: Crow's Nest to Macleod, Calgary to Macleod, Babb to Macleod and Medicine Hat to Macleod. It is the intention of the Dominion and Federal Governments to make a grand permanent highway from Edmonton to Babb, Mont. and the Montana authorities have also promised to look after the roads on their side of the border. Special attention will be paid this year to the road to Glacier Park. The trail to Waterton Park, Southern Alberta's summer resort, will shortly be in splendid condition for tourist traffic. Over three and a half million dollars will be expended during the next four years on the roads and trails in the Western provinces. The municipalities have promised to see that the market roads leading to the various highways will also be put in good shape and the tourist this year driving through Alberta can be assured of easy, smooth traveling.

Mike Mountain Horse and R. Hamilton addressed the meeting on behalf of the forthcoming big Indian celebration, and asked that special accommodation be obtained for the use of the many visitors who are expected here on July 1st, 2nd and 3rd. The chairman promised that everything would be done to assist them in this matter and that he would appoint a special committee for this purpose.

The minister of public works, the Hon. Alex. Ross, is expected to attend the next meeting of the Board of Trade on the 19th inst. and will speak on the matter of good roads. Further notices regarding this meeting will be advertised in the columns of this paper.

SEED INOCULATION AND ITS LIMITATIONS

Especially at this season of the year, when spring seeding is under way, the question of seed inoculation with cultures of bacteria receives considerable attention. As various cultures are advertised, some with unwarranted claims, it seems desirable that our Canadian farmers and growers should be informed as to what extent the practice of seed inoculation has received sound scientific approval, and just what its limitations are in the light of present day knowledge. With this in view the following statement has been prepared jointly by F. C. Harrison, Principal and Professor of Bacteriology, Macleod College; D. H. Jones, Professor of Bacteriology, Ontario Agricultural College; G. H. Lee, Professor of Bacteriology, Manitoba Agricultural College; and A. G. Lochhead, Dominion Agricultural Bacteriologist, Ottawa:

In all agricultural soils bacteria are necessary for the best production of any crop. They play an indispensable part in the preparation of plant food, helping to change it from an unavailable form into a soluble form capable of being used by the growing plant. It is especially in connection with the work of supplying the nitrogen requirements of the plant that bacteria are important. While certain kinds convert nitrogenous materials in the soil itself into forms which can be taken up by the plant, other bacteria are able to gather nitrogen from the air. Some of these work independently in the soil, others in association with the roots of plants of the leguminous type, in the nodules or swellings on the roots of vigorous plants of this kind.

With the single exception of the legume bacteria there is no indication of a scarcity of useful bacteria in an otherwise good soil. If they are lacking in a soil the soil does not favour their growth, due to some such condition as excessive alkalinity, acidity or some other defect. Only when such a defect is corrected will the useful bacteria flourish. Adding bacteria other than legume bacteria will therefore be superfluous in normal soils and of little or no

SECOND FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

The weather over the entire province during the past fortnight has been cool and unsettled with frost at night, and with rather heavy precipitation in many localities. In the southern part of the province, where seeding had become general, this condition interfered somewhat with operations, which have only this week been resumed. In the more central and northern districts, where spring plowing had scarcely begun, the rain and cool weather further delayed commencement of work.

Seeding became general in the southern districts about April 20, but was delayed a week by the backward weather. Operations have now been resumed, and from twenty-five to fifty per cent. of the wheat seeding is completed. This applies to the districts south and immediately north of the main line of the C.P.R.

In the more central districts spring plowing had scarcely commenced on April 20, and on account of the heavy condition of the land and the rains of the past ten days, no further operations have been possible until the present week. Seeding will therefore not become general until the first week in May, although a considerable amount of seeding has been done in the sections immediately north of Calgary and the C.P.R. line as far as Red Deer. From Red Deer north very little spring plowing has been done, and no seeding of wheat has taken place. The present warm, dry weather will hasten work on the land.

In the northern and Peace River districts, spring operations have also been delayed, and seeding will not be general there until about May 7.

In all districts in the province, moisture conditions are excellent. Reports from the south-eastern districts being particularly encouraging. In those districts there is more moisture than for years, and good pasture will soon be available for stock, which has improved wonderfully in condition in the past two weeks. Medicine Hat reports two inches of precipitation; Lethbridge 1.91 inches; Claresholm 1 inch; Gleichen 75 inch; Brooks 13 inches; Youngstown 1.9 inches. The south-western district reports winter wheat and rye coming along in good shape, with a little early spring wheat showing above ground. Generally speaking, soil conditions throughout the province are more satisfactory than they have been for some years.

There is a brisk demand for good farm labor, wages paid being from $45 to $50 a month. The provincial labor bureau reports having filled 3711 farm vacancies since March 15.

NEWS OF THE DAIRY, LIVESTOCK & POULTRY POOLS

Plans are going steadily forward for the province wide drive for memberships in the three new co-operative marketing pools now being organized for the handling of the dairy, livestock, and poultry products. Meetings of the joint Board of the three pools are being held each week, to discuss plans for the coming campaign, which is to be held for three weeks between June 8th and 28th, after seeding operations are over, and the farmers will be able to give their attention to pool matters.

In connection with this drive for contracts in the pool, a series of meetings will be held throughout the province at which competent speakers will be on hand to discuss the merits of each pool. Canvassers for the drive have been named in all districts, and will be ready with contracts when the opening date arrives.

Contracts for all three pools continue to arrive steadily at the pool offices. The enthusiasm behind the movement appears to be growing throughout the province. The livestock pool has already reached about 18 per cent. of its objective, and the poultry pool has nearly 12 percent of its objective. The dairy pool is approaching the 600 mark in the number of contracts signed up to date.

The entire co-operative poultry marketing service of the provincial department of agriculture, which has been in operation for some years, will be taken over by the new provincial poultry pool when it comes into operation, according to Mrs. F. E. Wyman, Secretary of the Poultry Producers pool.

The objective of the poultry pool is 1,000,000 dozen eggs a year, and contracts have already been signed covering the production of about 25,000 hens. This is only on the basis of the hens at present owned by the contract signers. By the time the pool is in operation, these contract signers already signed up will bring many more producing birds into the pool.

The pool will be brought into operation just as soon as the directors feel that sufficient production has been covered by contract to warrant the starting of the pool. In the meantime, as the peak period of production is at hand, producers are advised to market their product through the provincial government marketing service, which has stations at Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge.

Over 400 canvassers have been appointed for the membership drive for the pools, and will be ready to take the field with contracts on June 8th, when the drive commences. In connection with the benefits to be derived from the establishment of the dairy pool, it is pointed out by the directors in charge of the organization that co-operative marketing will be a big factor in marketing Alberta's creamery butter abroad. It has been found that the creamery operators of the province who export butter have had to work under some system of co-operation to gain the fullest advantage, for the reason that competing countries are also organized. Denmark is under a co-operative contract system and Australia and New Zealand operate under a compulsory board.
